Grey one-half length for second money.

Amelia May was entered to be sold for $500 and it is believed several owners were laying to hoist her up on Magrane. The mare's hard races recently may have affected her. Turbiville rode her vigorously snough in the stretch, but she seemed to be all out.

Interviews With Leaders of the Party at Pertle Springs Conven-

Special to the Post-Dispatch. PERTLE SPRINGS, Mo., Aug. 6.-After the close of the State Convention this evening representatives of the Post-Dispatch in-terviewed a number of leading Democrats on the work of the Fost-Dispatch in calling silver. The interviews follow:

Hon, Richard P. Bland said: mong the morning newspapers in Missouri, the Post-Dispatch. It has been of great aseducator. It has furnished the news and has made itself an indispensable organ to the friends of free silver. It has assisted the Democracy of the Mississippl Valley over many hard places and has done a great work. Without the Post-Dispatch this convention could not have been held."

Gov. Wm. J. Stone said: "The convention has been a great success. Its proceedings have been conducted with dignity, firmness and conservatism. A finer body of men has never been assembled in Missouri. The work accomplished will command general approval. The Post-Dispatch deserves great credit for its splendid, work. I doubt if the convention could have been convened except for the fight made by the Post-Dispatch. I hear only words of praise for your paper."

Judge J. W. Shackelford of Boone County Judge J. W. Shackelford of Boone County said: "It was the greatest convention ever held in Missouri and one which I believe will prove highly satisfactory to the people of the State. The highest commendation is due the Post-Dispatch for the great work it has done for the cause of free silvet. Without its powerful aid the convention could have never been held. The result shows the wonderful influence of that paper throughout the State. Friends of bimetallism throughout Missouri are indebted to the Post-Dispatch and its editor for the valuable aid it has rendered and the able and fearless campaign it has made for a just cause. The result speaks for itself. We have held a great convention and won a victory for the great cause of silver. Those who expected to hear wild speeches and witness over acts were disappointed. The business of the convention was done in an orderly, dignified and business-like manner. The resolutions and platform were based on common sense and reflected the sentiments of the party. To a very great degree to the wise counsel of the Post-Dispatch this result is due. It is truly a great newspaper."

Marcy K. Brown of Kansas City said:
"Free silver Democrats owe a debt of gratitude to the Post-Dispatch, which it will take years to repay. To the magnificent fight made by it more than to all other influences is due the calling of the State Convention and the glorious victory achieved to-day for the cause of true Democracy. achieved to-day for the cause of true Democracy,
"Of all the metropolitan dailies in the State the Post-Dispatch, silmost alone, has advocated the cause of the people, and led the fight against an arrogant enemy intrenched in power.

"With a platform declaring in unequivocal terms the time-honored principles of Democracy, and with a Central Committee in touch with the masses of the party, there is no reason why Missouri should not in the next campaign take her place at the head of the Democratic collumn and exercise a powerful influence in the next National Convention. With a National platform like that adopted to-day, and a man like Bland the party nominee for President, Democracy would win in a walk in the next National campaign."

morning paper in St. Louis that reflected the views of the party on the money question, and the Post-Dispatch, under Col. C. H. Jones' able management, came to the rescue and has rendered valiant service.

"The paper has grown in the opinion of the people by its stand for a convention.

"It voiced the sentiments of at least eighth-tenths of the party, and was a very material aid to us in our proper request of our Committee to call us together for the purpose of stating to the world the true position of the Missouri Democracy on silver."

State Treasurer Lon V. Stephens said:
The convention to day was emposed of the finest body of men I ever saw assembled in Missouri on any previous occasion.
There were five circuit judges, several exmembers of Congress, members of the House and Senate, bankers, farmers, raliroad men, lawyers and editors wearing delegates' badges. This gives the lie to the reports that the gold bugs delight to circulate—that our silver men are mostly deadbeats, communists, Socialists, cranks, etc.
"Of course a number of men are entitled to great credit for the success of the convention, but had it not been for the splendid work of the Post-Dispatch I feel their noble efforts would have been unavailing, and I am almost sure the old committee would have downed us and the silver men of our party would still be clamoring for a convention. The work of the Post-Dispatch has endeared it to the gold people of Missouri and the West, and it would not surprise me if its circulation reached the 100,000 mark within less than six months.

"The convention was the most successful and significant one in every respect ever held in Missouri. No mistakes were made.
Our declaration of principles is so simple and plain that it udmits of no misconstruction. The new blood placed upon the committee means a reorganization in every voting precinct in the State. It means Democracy is ready for the coming conflict—it means victory. I am proud of the humble part I have taken in this magnificent movement." State Treasurer Lon V. Stephens said

HER APPEAL DISMISSED.

There's a Body at the City Hospital Labeled Albert Bailey.

At 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon Under-taker Harvey M. Alexander, Garrison ave-nue and Olive street, interred in SS. Peter and Paul's Cemetery a body which he had received from the City Hagnital that eceived from the City Hospital that mornwere identified as those of Bailey by his by the friends of the deceased. by the Friends of the deceased. Mr. Alexander is confident, therefore, that he has buried the right body.

If this is the case whose is the body labeled Balley at the City Hospital?

Right here Undertaker John Sheahan of Harrigan & Sheahan comes to the front. Mr. Sheahan has a lurking suspicion that the body interred was that of a man named Michael O'Brien, for which he sent to the City Hospital early Tuesday morning at the request of Contractor Hogan of Bell avenue. The relatives of O'Brien, who was a teamster, live at Twenty-third and Dickson streets. They were notified Monday by postal early from the City Hospital that O'Brien ded Sunday night. They went to Contractor Hogan for assistance and he sent them to Mr. Sheahan when the body reached the undertaking rooms, Mr. Sheahan sent it back. If the name of the former occupant was O'Brien, it was not the O'Brien that Mr. Sheahan told a Post-Dispatch reporter that he thought the body was that of a man named Bailey. At all events there is no goatee on the chin, so Mr. Sheahan sent the remains back and he hasn't found the right body yet. Undertaker Alexander's statement that the body he buried had no goatee either, because it was shaved right there in his rooms, rather shakes Mr. Sheahan's belief that O'Brien at the City Hospital. His given name is Thomas, and he is not dead yet.

Mr. Sheahan has given up trying to solve the puzzle and is waiting until the right o'Brien is still alive. There is only one other O'Brien at the City Hospital. His given name is Thomas, and he is not dead yet.

Mr. Sheahan has given up trying to solve the puzzle and is waiting until the right o'Brien is etill alive. There is only one other O'Brien at the City Hospital dead-house is almost a modern avenue. His body is not at the Morgue, and the body habelled Bailey in the City Hospital dead-house may be his.

HARMONY AND ENTHUSIASM.

Weighty Business Transacted With Dispatch by the Delegates at the Pertle Springs Convention.

In the presence of 2,000 spectators, amid scenes of wild enthusiasm, 514 delegates to the Missouri Democratic Convention at Pertle Springs yesterday pronounced emphatically for the free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1 and wrested con-trol of the party organization from the

It was the biggest convention that the Democratic party has held for many years. It was great in the number of representative men that took part in the proceedings, It was momentous in that it committed the party irrevocably to the support of a burning political question. It was fraught with interest and some danger, because the par-ty machinery had to be taken away from men who were trying to thwart the will of

The proceedings were thoroughly in keeping with the work performed. There were strong outbursts of enthusiasm, but it was not headless. It is not recorded when a State convention did so much or such im-State convention did so much or such important work in the space of a few hours.

As an indication that the convention was there for business, the delegates were in their seats promptly at noon when Vice-Chairman Carroll of the State Central Committee rapped for order. There was no call read and Mr. Carroll explained that he was acting in the absence of Mr. Maffitt, who could not come owing to the death of a relative. He said: "It is our hope and wish that your deliberations here to-day may bring hope and victory to the Democrats of Missouri." He introduced Richard P. Bland as the committee's selection for temporary chairman.

BUT BAILEY IS BURIED.

Promptly at 2 o'clock Chairman Bland rapped for order. Mr. George W. Allen read the report of the Committee on Permanent Organization. The part referring to the organization of the State Committee is as follows:

Whereas, We are on the eve of a most important national and State campaign, and a thorough organization of the party in the State is of the highest moment; and Whereas, Many of the congressional districts of the State is of the highest moment; and Whereas, Many of the congressional districts of the State is of the bighest moment; and whereas, Many of the congressional district and expect a complete and efficient organization; therefore,

Resolved, That the present State Committee be increased by the addition of one committeem from every congressional district and four committeem it-large, making the total number of the minitee thirty-four.

Resolved, That the four committeem as the four committeem and the four committeem and the present state Committee be increased by the addition of one committeem are from every congressional district and four committeem it-large.

Resolved, That the four committeem are the present state Committeem are from every congressional district and four committeem of the miniteem are from every congressional district and four committeem are from every congressional distri hing because we haven't seen anybody 'et."

It is really a fact that up to the hour then the Committee on Permanent Organiation made its report members of the consistee on the ground did not believe that he convention would pass Bland's reorganiation scheme. When the convention actd they lost the jaunty air they had worn il morning, and showed plainly that they elt the embarrassment of their position.

They relied on Senator Cockrell to force compromise with Bland, and when he ailed, thought that the convention would ot take any radical steps. It will hardly urprise them to learn now that a resolution favoring their absolute dismissal was resented to the Committee, on Organizaton.

They do not look forward to 1896 with my overweening enthusiasm. Just now they think the party has committed haritari in turning them down. They realize, hough, just how high they stand in their party's estimation, for one of them said last night, "The convention didn't go to the rouble of firing us out. They just showed ack of confidence in us, and ignoring us alongether, put new men on the committee of do the work."

THE PLATFORM.

Missouri Democracy Pledged to Free Coinage at 16 to 1. The platform adopted at Pertie Springs dges the Democracy of Missouri to free mage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 coinage of gold and silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The preamble and resolutions follow: The Democrats of Missouri, in State convention assembled, make the following declaration on the monetary question, which has been forced into the leading place among the issues of to-day.

The Federal Constitution names silver and gold together as the money metal of the United States.

The first coinage law passed by Congress under the constitution made the silver dollar the unit of value and admitted gold to free coinage at a ratio measured by the silver dollar unit.

From the beginning of the Government, following a policy formulated by Thomas porations the Government's sovereign power of issuing and controlling the money of the people.

The act of 1873 demonetizing silver was surreptitiously passed without the approval or knowledge of the American people, and from the time when the effect of this act, in fastening upon this country the single gold standard, was understood; the Democratic party has consistently and persistently urged that the grievous wrong be righted.

Faliure to accomplish this object has resulted in the steady appreciation of gold and a corresponding fall in the price of commodities produced by the people, a heavy increase in the burden of all debts, public and private; the enrichment of the moneylending class; paralysis of industry and impoverishment of the people, and unexampled distress in all gold standard countries. Experience has shown that, while under the single gold standard there may be an occasional revival of business activity, accompanied by enhanced prices of a limited number of commodities, such revival is due to artificial and temporary causes, and cannot permanently alleviate the sufferings due to falling of prices brought about by the appreciation of gold and an inadequate supply of primary or redemption money.

Duty to the people requires that the party about by the appreciation of gold and an inadequate supply of primary or redemption money.

Duty to the people requires that the party of the people continue the battle for bimetallism until its efforts are crowned with succase; therefore, be it.

Resolved, That we, the Democratic party of Missouri, in convention assembled, demand the free and unlimited coinage of silver and gold into primary or redemption money, at the ratio of 16 to 1, without waiting for the action or approval of any other nation.

Resolved, Second—That we are irrevocably opposed to the substitution for metallic money of a panic-breeding corporation credit currency based on a single metal, the supply of which is so limited that it can be connered at any time by a few banking institutions in Europe and America.

Resolved, Third—That we are opposed to the holders of the obligations of the United States the option reserved by the law to the Government of redeeming such obligations in either silver coin or gold coin.

Resolved, Fourth—That we are opposed to the issuing of interest-bearing bonds of the United States in time of peace, and especially are we opposed to placing the Treasury of the Government under the control of any syndicate of bankers and the issuance-of bonds to be soid by them at an enormous profit for the purpose of supplying the Federal Treasury with gold to maintain the policy of gold monometallism.

'That's a hard question to answer. I don't see what good it's going to do if the national convention don't indorse free silver. Then it's a question, too, of whether the free silver platform will draw in as many as we will lose. We lost the State last fall and we must get together or we will lose it again. AMERICANS ARE PROTECTED.

Minister Denby Long Ago Made Demands of the Chinese Government.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7. — The United States anticipated Great Britain in tak-States anticipated Great Britain in taking the most energetic steps for the protection of the American missionaries in China. The injustice of the criticisms that have been uttered n some quarters upon the alleged indifference of United States Minister Denby is fully shown by a mail dispatch that has just come to the State Department from the Minister. It is dated towards the close of June and shows that Mr. Denby had made a sweeping and peremptory demand upon the Chinese Government, similar to that made yeaterday by the British Minister to Pekin, for the fullest protection for all Americans living in China; for redress for the depredations committed upon their property and persons and finally for the capital punishment of the perpetrators. Just what answer was returned by the Chinese Government is not known, as it has not yet reached the State Department, but it is a fact that, so far as the Department is informed, in all of bepartment, but it is a fact that, so far ney of as the Department is informed, in all of the recent outrages committed upon the missionaries in China not one American proval was killed or injured, and while some Amerwas killed or injured, and while some American mission property was destroyed, it will doubtless be promptly paid for. In view of the energetic course which Mr. Denby has already adopted, the State Department has not deemed it necessary to send him further instructions for his guidance. He has already been authorized to confer freely with Admiral Carpenter, the commander of our naval forces in Chinese waters, and the Admiral in turn has been instructed by the Secretary of the Navy to lend all proper assistance for the protection of Americans.

A Divernon, Ill., Couple Married in Hurst's Hotel Parlor.

marriage surrounded with some tery was celebrated at Hurst's Hotel Tuesday afternoon. About 3 o'clock a man of about 55 years entered the office and asked Clerk Jenkins for the use of the parlor for the evening. Fermission was granted and in thirty minutes the prospective bridegroom, the bride and the bride's sistercame in. They were accompanied by a clerical looking gentleman.

The marriage ceremony was performed at once, Clerk Jenkins acting as best man and the sister of the bride as bridesmaid. Immediately after the ceremony the party left the hotel and did not return until late in the evening, when the new-made Benedict registered in a bold hand as "John K. Smith and wife, Divernon, Ill."

A Post-Dispatch reporter sent up his card this morning, but was denied an audience, the lady sending word that she had no statement to make. The bride was, before the ceremony, Mrs. Mathilde L. FOUGHT WITH A BELL BOY.

A. W. Moore, commercial agent for the Peorla, Decatur & Evansville Rallroad, with headquarters at Memphis, Tenn., would have killed himself at Hurst's Hotel had chambermaid gathered up her skirts and fied.

Just then Jenkins, the clerk, made his appearance, accompanied by the porter. The bell boy had come running into the office with the revolver and had breathlessly told what was going on upstairs. The porter is big enough and strong enough to kill and eat a half dozen fellows like Moore. But he didn't hurt him. He just threw him across his shoulders like he would a sack of flour and carried him, kicking and struggling, down to the street. Then a policeman came and called the hoodlum wagon and Moore was taken down to the Chestnut street police station. He was too drunk to give his name, but the police found it out from a lot of letters and railroad passes in his pockets.

By midnight he was pretty well sobered up and a friend came and balled him out. They went to Hurst's and got Moore's baggage and spent the rest of the night at the Laclede Hotel, leaving there early in the morning.

Col. MacDonald conducted the cross-examination.

"Do you keep boarders and rent rooms?"

"I do."

"Is the personal property you speak of all you have?"

"Yes, sir."

"Don't you owe Mr. Guiterman on it?"

"Hasn't Lawyer Dalton got a claim of Guiterman's against you for collection?"

"No. sir."

"Don't you owe M. R. Collins two months' rent?"

"No, sir."

"MacDonald, telling me you had not a cent in the world and asking me to come forward and help you out?"

Mr. Garesche objected. Judge Flitcraft sustained it.

"Did you not send me word by John L. Martin, when your daughter was accidentally killed, that you had not a dollar to bury her and no money to buy a lot in the cemetery, and want me to come forward and pay the expenses, and did I not do so?" asked Mr. MacDonald.

"The Court: "Objection sustained."

Col. MacDonald: "There is a piano in the house?"

"There is."

"The contents were there transferred to a train consisting of twenty cars. The whole was in the nature of a lively pageant rather than a breaking up and removal enterprise. The wagons were decorated with large posters in black and yellow (the company's standard colors); the train was gally hung with black and yellow bunting, and huge banners announced the contents of each car, the time of departure from and arrival at the various stations along the line.

Injunction Prohibiting Publication of Removal Amendment.

APPEAL WILL BE TAKEN.

Judge Shackleford Holds That the Proposed Amendment Contains Some Unconstitutional Propositions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Aug. 7.—In an xtended opinion delivered verbally, Judge Shackleford to-day granted the injunction prayed for by J. R. Edwards against the Secretary of State, forbidding the Secretary to publish the proposed constitutional amendment to remove the capital to Se-dalia. Attorney-General Walker at once gave notice of appeal to the Supreme sision of this afternoon is not final. It is but a stepping stone to the adjudicating of this vexed question in the State Supreme

It is but a stepping stone to the adjudicating of this vexed question in the State Supreme Court of the United States.

The Judge said that the contention that the act of admission of Missouri into the Union was of such a character, by contract or otherwise, that vested rights ensued to the people, and that consequently the capital could not be moved was not well taken. He thought the proper action and proper laws might be taken and passed to move the capital. He gave it as his opinion that the proposed constitutional amendment conveyed two or more propositions, to be voted for under a single head, and that, one of them, at least, that giving to Sedalia the constitutional power to issue bonds for a specific purpose in excess of the present constitutional limitation—would probably be in conflict. He had that a constitutional amendment for however intelligent, could divide subjects, one from the other, but would be compelled to vote for both, or against both. He announced that the standing on the case of Livermore vs. Walte, the California case, which has been strongly attacked by the attorneys of Sedalia and so well supported by the attorneys for Jefferson City—and finding that the opinion in that case had come down from a united court, and in aclear and logical manner laid the foundation and established the rules which should govern in similar cases, he could not do otherwise than overrule the demurrer.

Judge Shackleford did not pretend to have digested all the points at issue in this case. On the contrary, he pointed out vital defects in the proposed amendment, and found that in the light of the case of Livermore vs. Waite, considering such defects, the injunction should be granted, and the demurrer overruled.

Jefferson City is in high glee, but there will be no demonstrations such as may be expected when the question of capital removal is at last decided by the Supreme Court.

"The bank lowered the price of American gold about three weeks or a month ago one-half penny to the ounce. It now stands at 76 shillings and 3 pence half-penny per ounce, almost the lowest figure it has ever touched to my knowledge."

"Won't that have the effect of draining gold from the United States?"

"Not in the slightest. The decrease is too infinitesimal."

"Then why did the Bank of England make any change"

"Simply because the directors saw an opportunity of getting gold at cheaper figure, and they availed themselves of it. I have no doubt that they will reduce it another halfpenny, which will make it 76 shillings 3 pence per ounce. This is actual gold value in coin value, in fact of pure gold; but it won't go per ounce. This is actual gold value in coin value, in fact of pure gold; but it won't go below that."

"Will not that reduce the drain in gold from the United States and so ease the position of the gold syndicate?"

"It is a fallacy to suppose that the price paid for gold by the Bank of England, even were it lowered substantially, would affect the drain of gold from the United States, Gold is sent over here to pay debts which can only be paid in gold. People here won't take payment in anything else, no matter what price the bank pays for gold. Those debts will have to be paid in gold all the time and the drain will continue."

The inmates of the house said she got drunk at Lizzle Brennan's, on North Twelfth street, and had no particular reason beyond this to take her life. They say she swallowed the poison on the pavement, after a colored woman had made an unsuccessful attempt to knock the stuff out of her hand. They also said that Dottle Kahn, an inmate of Lizzle Brennan's, showed the despondent woman how to take the poison. Dottle denied this and said that Stella grieved because she had a fight with Kitty Green, an inmate of Mollie Murphy's house, and on this account took the morphine.

Stella Mitchell was 20 years old and came to St. Louis to lead a life of shame about a year ago. Her correct name was Nellie Carter and she came from some place near Alton, Ill.

"WISH DUESTROW HAD BEEN SANE."

Remark of Dr. Keating Bauduy on the Stand.

HIS $500 FEE TOO SMALL.

Testified That the Defendant Was Suffering from Sub-Acute Hallucinatory Paranoia.

Special to The Post-Dispatch.
UNION, Mo., Aug. 7.—The Duestrow trial
did not commence this morning until 9 o'clock, when Dr. Keating Bauduy was called to the stand. He qualified as an expert and told of his various visits to Duestrow, describing the latter's alleged delusions. If these delusions were true the man was necessarily insane. Witness knew it could not be mania or alcoholic insanity, and so by ex-clusion he reached the conclusion that it was paranola. Paranola is a systematized insanity, beginning in delusions of persecu-tions and followed by ideas of exaltation. am great," he thinks. "In what respect am I great," he asks. "It is because I am an 'nventor," or as in Duestrow's case, the discoverer of a hypnotic system.

Marked characteristics of paranola are exceptional memory and the non-disturbance of the sense of activity. Paranola is the one form of insanity which cannot be skillfully simulated for any length of time. Most simulated for any length of time. Most simulated for any length of time Most simulators thrust their delusions before you. Duestrow did not do this. The simulator always has his "I don't know" ready. Duestrow always had his answer. Simulators overact, Duestrow never did There was not a single flaw to disturb the clinical picture. The spontaneity of Duestrow's answers and their logicality precluded simulation. A shammer would necessarily have to think about his reply. Duestrow stood the test of suggestion. Most simulators when a flaw in their hotting is suggested to them by incandowill aktempt to correct it and thus show their faisity. am great," he thinks."In what respect am I

The first question Mr. Meriwether asked the doctor was when he got to Union. The doctor said last night. "You did not hear the testimony then, did you?"

"You did not did you?"
"No, sir."
"Did you go over the testimony of Dr. Simon and Dr. Crandall?"
"Yes, sir. They told me some points."
"What did they say?"
"Dr. Simon said your cross-examination was so easy that I would not have to post up any."

There was quite a laugh at this saily.
"Did he nat tell that he testified that paroniacs do not act out their delusions?"

"Yes, sir, I think he did."

This line of examination was then cut off by the despace's objection. Mr. Meriwether held that masmuch as Dr. Simon and Dr. Bauduy hat testified almost verbatim to the same matter he had a right to know if there had not been a consultation between them. He switched after the objection, however, and plunged into a technical examination of the characteristics of paranola. The defense carefully refrained from asking the witness as to the classification of paranola from which Duestrow is suffering. They did this same thing with Dr. Simon. Meriwether brought out the fact shortly that in the witness' opinion the sub-hallucinatory form is that which controls Duestrow.

The question was squarely put to the witness by Mr. Meriwether as to whether there was one solitary form of insanity where delusions are not followed by action. The witness replied as squarely that there was, and he offered to give his authorities. He fell back on Regis and read the same passage as read by Dr. Simon yesterday where the author says that in progressive insanity "there is no disorder of the general activity."

Regis' progressive insanity is subacute

Dr. Bauduy had noticed Duestrow's sudden stare, but he connected them with auricular hallucinations rather than with epilepsy.

The witness quoted Kraft-Ebing, the noted German authority, as supporting his position on the difficulty of simulating insolition on the difficulty of simulating insolition on the difficulty of simulating insolition on the difficulty of simulating insolitions. He was asked to show the place in Kraft-Ebings—It then developed that the book was in German, and the doctor-could not read it. He said Dr. Bremer had told him such was the case, and upon request of the State all this was stricken out.

On the question of the systematization of the delusions, the witness stated apparent inconsistencies could be explained by the origin of the delusions.

Mr. Merriwether began to be skeptical as to how it would be possible to distinguish between systematized delusions and those unsystematized. The witness then illustrated by telling of one man who had a frog in his stomach. It was just there and he could give no reason for it. This delusion was unsystematized. Another man had a frog in his stomach and could tell how it got there, how he felt, etc. This was a systematized delusion.

As to compensation the doctor said he had gotten $500, and had done $5,000 worth of work. This was the worst case he and ever fallen into, and he wished to God Duestrow had been sane.

There was absolutely no bias in his mind. It would have been the same had he found Duestrow sane, for he god his money first. At $11:30 a. m. Dr. Bauduy was excused and court adjourned until 2 p. m. to give the defense opportunity to finish up their hypothetical questions, preparatory to putting them to Drs. J. K. Bauduy and Bremer.

The real battle in the Duestrow case began yesterday with the testimony of Dr. John H. Simon of St. Louis, expert or rather scientific observer, as Gov. Johnson termed him, for the defense. His appearance on the stand meant the opening of the scientific discussion of the case, the crucial part of the entire trial. The material facts were plain. Is the man responsible for the deed as set forth by them?

Dr. Simon was a different witness yesterday from what he was at the last hearing on Duestrow's mental condition. Then, under the crossfire of Lee Meriwether's questioning, he fell down. He falled to specify the character of Duestrow's alleged paranola as being of the subacute hallucinatory type and was unable to complete the logical systematization of the alleged delusions.

Yesterday he showed the advantage of the coaching of Dr. Bremer and the elder Dr. Bauduy. He didn't fail to mention the classification of the paranola and he had his explanations ready for the apparent inconsistency in the logicality of the delusions.

One of the strongest points made by the State at the last hearing was that in paranola the victim acts out his delusions. Upon the evidence of the defense's own witnesses it was shown that Duestrow had not acted in accordance with his, and this, together with the apparent lack of systematization, knocked paranols to the winds. At that time the distinction between the classical and sub-hallucinatory form of paranola were not clearly brought out.

Now in Simon's testimony he held that action in the sub-hallucinatory form of paranola were not clearly brought out.

ness of the day, is a new expert, or "scientific observer." He appears somewhat in the role of Dr. Charles G. Chaddock's successor. He is professor of general medicine in the Marion-Sims Medical College and in the absence of Dr. Chaddock in Europe tending the latter's practice. He was formerly connected with the Michigan Insane Asylum. He did not come to St. Louis until after the last insanity proceedings.

On May 27 he was asked by Gov. Johnson to wisit Duestrow and continued doing so until the latter came up here for trial. On the stand he gave a number of Duestrow's alleged edusions, all of them old. He testified to having used the opthalmoscope and other mechanical insanity tests about which the State previously so harped. His final con-

On cross-examination he refused to state the classification of paranoia, from which the defendant is supposed to be suffering, for the reason that he was not in possession of all the facts in Duestrow's life bearing upon this question. The witness saw no physical signs of alcoholic mania, but, owing to the difficulty of differentiating the symptoms of alcoholic mania and paranoia, would not say that Duestrow had not alcoholic symptoms.

would not say that Duestrow had not alcoholic symptoms.

Dr. Crandall, among other things, said that he did not think a good memory a necessary concomitant of paranoia. If the victim had not a good memory naturally he would not have one when he became insane. This theory is in direct controversion with that hitherto advanced by the defense. They have asserted that one of the characteristics of paranoia is that the victim has a remarkable memory; that one of the reasons they knew Duestrow was not shamming was that while sane he was menially so weak and when a paranoiac he developed so fine a memory, thus showing change of character, the essence of mental disease.

Dr. Bremer and the Bauduys must be de-Dr. Keating Bauduy arrived last night. On the same train came a number of the State's witnesses in abuttal. Detective Viehle has been in St. Louis the past two days summoning witnesses to rebut the testimony concerning the inebriety of the elder Mr. and Mrs. Duestrow. Circuit Attorney Zachritz is said to have a list of well-to-do persons in St. Louis who will swear that the testimony about their drunkenness is false.

the testimony about their drumenines as false.

During the adjournment Judge Hirzel had a conversation with the attorneys for the defense, in which he told them that a policy of delay would not serve them if they thereby hoped to shut the State out of time to rebut the defense's testimony. Judge Hirzel will have to go to Osage County to hold court a week from Monday, but he informed the defense that the State would be given all the time they wanted, even if he simply opened court there and immediately adjourned.

journed. "I don't charge dilatory tactics," he said, "but I want you to understand the matter." These remarks of the Judge were called forth by the tardiness the defense has shown in getting their witnesses on the stand and in preparing their hypothetical cases.

Court did not recouvene until 3 o'clock when, the defense being in readiness, Dr. Ludwig Bremer was called to the stand and gave his position with reference to Duestrow's insanity.

ctal to The Post-Dispatch. special to the Post-Dispatch.
UNION, Mo., Aug. I.—Deputy Sheriff Edgar Terry arrived in Union this morning having in custody Jacob Judy, whom he brought with him from Duvali's Bluff, Ark. Judy killed a man named Edward O'Gara eighteen years ago near Catawissa, in this county. He was indicted, but fied and was never heard of until about six months ago, when the Franklin County authorities received word that he was in White County, Ark. He got away, but was again located at Duvali's Bluff, Prairie Co., Ark., and held to await the coming of Deputy Sheriff Terry.
Judy claims that the killing was done in self-defense. His story is that he quarreled with O'Gara and the latter's father over a horse trade. O'Gara threw a rock at him and he fired in return, killing him. When he fied he changed his hame to Jacob Judy. He took his wife with him and two years later a daughter was born. Her father's secret was told her. She married recently and disclosed the secret to her husband, who gave it to the officers—and so he tongue of woman put Jacob Judy on trial for his life. V. Carson, was to the effect that Green had been intimate with the woman and that the accused pair had twice attempted to poison the husband with strychnine, but without success. The night of the killing Mrs. Green is alleged to have stunned her husband by hitting him in the head with a hammer while he was asleep. Then Green, who had been previously admitted to the house by the woman, held the husband, it is alleged, while the woman out Carson's throat, almost severing the head from the body with a razor given her by Green. Green departed, and the woman, cleaning the blood from her clothing, rushed out with her child in her arms and told the neighbors that her husband was killing himself. It was supposed to be a suicide until the physician summoned by the Coroner found a broken piece of razor in the dead man's neck, while Carson's rasor was found by his side bloody, but intact. Excitement is intense, and there was talk of lynching the accused couple during the hearing yesterday.

Thomas Quinn Cut in Seven Places by Midnight Raiders.

Two burglars entered the room of Thomas Quinn, at Louis Mallet's boarding-house, $210 South Compton avenue, about 3 a. m. Tuesday. Quinn, who is a conductor on the California avenue electric line, had returned about midnight, lying down on the bed with his clothes on. Owen Davy, who rooms with him, was the first to be aroused by the burglar's entrance. Quinn was awakened by Davy and a battle followed in the dark. Davy was knocked out first by the burglar's lantern. Quinn was just gaining control over his assailant when the latter called to his pal outside. The latter came and attacked Quinn savagely with the butt end of a pistol. Blinded by the blood which gushed from seven gaping wounds, he sank helpless to the ground. Quinn's wounds are serious, but not necessarily fatal. The burglars got away with $20 belonging to Quinn and several dollars and a knife belonging to Benjamin Kaunman, who slept in a front room. A hat and a handkerchief found in the back yard were dropped by the burglars and these clews are in the hands of the police.

THE STATE CONVENTION.

The Democratic State Convention at Pertle Springs was a splendid success. It was numerously attended, and the general verdict of delegates and visitors is that it contained more prominent and representative Democrats of the State has been held in many years. Its work was done smoothly and with practical unanimity. It leaves behind it no rankling memories of heated debate or ruth-

The platform adopted is in every way admirable. At last Missouri Democrats have put forth a declaration of their views in which there is no semblance of a straddle and which is too explicit to be misrepresented or misunderstood. The declaration was not only adopted without opposition in the convention, but there is no doubt whatever that it expresses the views of nine-tenths of the Democrats of Missouri.

Committee was conservative and considdesire to spare the feelings of the old committee as much as possible. Fortunately, however, this amiable desired did not prevent the convention from placing the party's agents under the party's control. The condition of affairs in Missouri in this respect has for several years been anomalous, and when a crisis like the present was reached, it speedily became unendurable. The fundamental Democratic principle is that the majority Committee, which is appointed solely under the control of a small and unrepresentative minority faction, drawing its inspiration from a petty boss.

Pertle Springs Convention had allowed this condition of things to continue, in view of the vital issues next year, it would have been derelict in its first duty to its constituents.

What was done at Pertle Springs and all that was done was to take the State Executive Committee out of the control of a boss and place it under the control of the party. Any one who opposes this is an enemy of Democracy and has nothing to hope for in the future from Mis-

MR. GLADSTONE'S ARMENIAN SPEECH. Mr. Gladstone has earned the com-mendation of the civilized world by his clear and forcible utterances on the Armenian question at the Chester meet-

The speech of the Grand Old Man was especially valuable because it brought out clearly two vital points in the sit-uation. One of these is the direct responsibility of the Turkish Government for the Armenian horrors, and the other is the moral obligation of the European powers, particularly Great Britain, to effectually interpose for the protection of the Armenians. Mr. Gladstone emphasizes the fact tha no dependence can be placed on Turkish promises and that in interposing to pro-tect the Armenians Great Britain must be prepared to go to any length, even to coercion, to force from Turkey a radical reform of Armenian administration and guarantees of future good conduct.

This programme practically means the appointment of a Christian Governor under European control and the taking of the entire Armenian administration out of the hands of Turkish officials. In the opinion of all who have intelli-gently studied the situation this is the only satisfactory conclusion.

Mr. Gladstone's strong speech gives fresh hope that this satisfactory conclusion will be reached. It cannot fail to intensify public opinion and thus have a salutary effect upon the British gov-

WITHOUT FREE PASSES.

Unwittingly and unintentionally the railroads rendered a great service to the Democrats of Missouri when they refused to issue passes for the Pertle Springs convention. It was no doubt supposed by them-and their expectation was shared by a large number of outside Democrats—that the refusal of free transportation and the high excursion rate would so reduce the attendance at the convention as to make it a comparative

In spite of the fact that all who at tended had to pay their own fare and other expenses, nearly the full comple-ment of delegates from all the counties was present, together with a larger num-ber of visitors than usually attend a State convention.

This lesson should not be lost upon either political party in Missouri. It has been shown that a highly successful con-vention can be held without free passes or railroad favors of any kind. For the than any previous State convention that first time in many years a State Convention has assembled in Missouri in which the fallroads and the corporations they stand for were without representation and without influence. There should never be another with which the fre pass bribery can have weight.

THE TRIWIDAD OPPORTUNITY.

It is to be hoped that the United States Great Britain and Brazil will not overlook the advantages for a peaceful and eminently satisfactory settlement of the Trinidad embroglio offered by Baron Harden-Hickey's claim to its pos and his eager yearning to enjoy royalty's glittering bauble.

We feel sure that an arrangement could be concluded by which the sovereignty of Trinidad could be invested in King Harden-Hickey which would be halled with acclaim by the civilized world. Trinidad is a bleak island principally consisting of one barren mountain. It would be a continual source of expense to any nation obtaining it. Colonizing it without paying a salary to each colonist for his services is out of the question. As the son-in-law of a Standard Ol magnate King Harden-Hickey could well afford to maintain his royal state and support a small retinue of subjects. By tions interested could have the island guarded from thieves and enjoy whatever use they may have for it without ex-pense. They should make it an essen-tial condition of the recognition of King Harden-Hickey that he live on the island.

The spectacle of King Harden-Hickey sitting in gorgeous royal grandeur on his peak with his $3,000 crown on his head and his $500 scepter in his hand and his $40 a month subjects around him would not only be an unctuous contribution to ing to multi-millionaires to beware of asses in the selection of son-in-laws.

With a mitted party in a united country even the present situation would afford no ground for despondency in the Irish party. No men can doubt that but for unhapppy events in the autumn of 1800 the verdict in 1892 in favor of home rule would have been absolutely decisive. Friction alone prevented this result. Unhappily this friction has continued since the outbreaks in discipline in our own ranks have given the enemies of Ireland another lease of power in Great Britain.

In spite of all discouragements and difficulties the national spirit has once again asserted itself. Ireland voted with unconquerable resolve, but it cannot be doubted that Ireland would have done far cetter still, and Great Britain would not have done so immediately had it not been for the action of the so-called Irish Nationalists who have been endeavoring openly to bring back the coercionists to power and still more in lamentable blows aimed at the Irish party and the Irish national cause by one of our own colleagues at the most critical moment in the elections. It would be almost impossible to over-estimate the disastrous effects of Mr. Healy's unfounded charges against his own colleagues at Omagh, made as they were on the authority of leading members of the party, and at a period of the election when there was no possibility of counteracting their effects on the polis. It is with deep regret that I feel compelled to characterize Mr. Healy's action at the Omagh convention as disloyal to his party and, even setting aside our own special obligations to each other, as a breach of the ordinary code of honer and discipline essential to the existence of every political organization. The Omagh seandal is unhapply only the latest of a series of attacks on the unity and efficiency of the Irish party. Let us endeavor that it shall be the last. I do not think that Judge Murphy is far wrong in the abstract as regards the foolish fashion laddes have of wearing valuable gold watches hug, as it were, on their shoulder, by a slender hook, or carrying their pocketbooks in their hand. While it is against the law under any circumstances to appropriate anything that is not one's own, and such cases should be punished as the law directs, still it is well to avoid, if possible, tempting those who are so inclined. Pockets are made as receptacles and every woman should be so provided regardless of present style of dress. Crime nowadays needs no inducement. "Safe bind, safe find," is a good motto. It does not need a dress reform, whether male or female, to see the folly of exposing one's valuables unnecessarily. Judge Murphy is right.

Hearing on the Constitutionality of the Act of Congress.

BLANCHARD'S ARGUMENT.

Presenting the Contention of the Louisiana Planters to Comptroller Bowler.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. I.—The hearing to-day before Comptroller Bowler upon the question of the constitutionality of the sugar bounty appropriations made by Congress at its last session for the crop of 1898 and 1894, arises upon the claim of the Oxnard Beet Sugar Co., of Nebraska, that being the first claim settled by the Auditor since the passage of the Wilson bill by which the old sugar bounties of the McKinley bill were repealed.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue having adjusted the amount of the bounties due the Oxnard company, referred all the papers to the Auditor of the Treasury Department for the statement of an account thereon. The Auditor stated an account allowing the amount fixed by the Commissionar of Internal Revenue and certified his decision to the Comptroller for his approval, disapproval or modification, as required by the provisions of the new accounting system adopted in the act of July Si. 1884, as the result of the labors of the Dockery Commission. That act requires the auditors in making an original construction of a statute, to report to the Comptroller of the Treasury their decisions and to suspend action until the Comptroller has passed upon the question. This was rendered necessary by the change which the Dockery Commission made in the accounting offices by which claims stated by an auditor do not go to the Comptroller as a matter of course, but only reach him upon appeal, or in the manner above indicated.

The decision of the Comptroller is required to be acted upon by the Auditor.

Comptroller as a matter of course, but only reach him upon appeal, or in the manner above indicated.

The decision of the Comptroller is required to be acted upon by the Auditor, whose certificate is made by law final and conclusive upon the executive branch of the Government. The result is that the decision of the Comptroller cannot be roviewed by any other executive officer of the Government. Claims rejected by the Comptroller, however, may be sued on in the Court of Claims, or in certain cases in the Circuit and District Courts of the United States, their decisions being binding upon him.

The Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia in the case of the United States ex rel. the Miles Planting and Manufacturing Co., vs. John G. Carlisie and Jos. S. Miller, being a mandamus proceeding against the Secretary of the Treasury and Commissioner of Internal Revenue, to compel them to appoint sugar inspectors under the provise ns of the McKinley act, having held that the sugar bounties were unconstitutional, the Comptroller of the Treasury deemed it his duty to be satisfied upon that point before passing the claim of the Oxnard company and establishing a precedent for the payment of the sugar bounties provided for by the new appropriations. He therefore without making any decision upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counsel of the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever, called upon the counselof the Oxnard company to be heard upon the matter whatever the payment of the Oxnard company to be heard upon

Why Leading Journals of the Country

NEW YORK, Aug. 7.—The World this morning prints from a number of the leading papers of the country responses to telegraphic requests by the World for their views on the proposed Paper Trust. The editors and publishers of the newspapers from whom answers were received are opposed to the scheme. The arguments of those who are endeavoring to form the combination are met with the counter-argument that if the consolidation be formed prices could be advanced and the paper furnished might not be up to contract agreement and there could be nothing gained by protest. Further, it is pointed out that the readers of newspapers would in the end be the sufferers. The point is made that many newspapers would be forced out of existence, and the assertion is made that the plan is to squeeze the producers of raw materials as well as the publishers.

Among the papers so responding are the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, Boston Globe, Boston Post, Omaha World-Herald, Pittsburg Dispatch, Richmond State, Chicago Tribune, Chicago Post, Philadelphia Times, Bit Louis Globe-Democrat, New Orleans Picayune, Pittsburg Fost, San Francisco Chronicle, Washington Post and New Orleans Times-Democrat.

IS MRS. GARDINER INSANE?

Said to Be Employed as a Domestic in BOSTON, Aug. 7.-A dispatch from Nor-wich, Conn., says that Mrs. A. M. Gardiner of Nebraska, the delegate to the Christian Endeavor convention who so mysteriously disappeared from Boston, has been located at Norwichtown Green, a suburb.

"Dorothy Mansfield" and Mrs. Gardiner are one and the same person, but Mrs. Gardiner of to-day has greatly changed since she left Arcadia to come to the Christian Endeavor encampment in Boston. Mrs. Gardiner has been caimly reading of herself in the columns of the Boston newspapers, and commenting to the people with whom she has been staying on the mysterious disappearance of Mrs. Gardiner. She is employed as a domestic, and when found by Mr. Sanders of Nebraska, who was searching for her, at first denied her identity, but later acknowledged that she is Mrs. Gardiner, but declares that she will not return to her family. She is thought to be out of her mind, yet she shows a shrewdness that is puzzling. That it is the missing woman there is no doubf, and steps will be taken to return her to Nebraska. She had sought an engagement as a teacher, and, failing to-secure it, had hired out as a domestic. of Nebraska, the delegate to the Christian

Clark Not a Good Witness.

BOSTON, Mass., Aug. 7.—Charles Clark, the missing witness in the case of Theodore Durrrant, on trial in San Francisco for murder, was interviewed just before his departure for the West last night. He emphatically declared that he knew absolutely nothing that had any bearing on the murders, and that because of a casual remark, the lawyers for the defense had sought to stay proceedings through the use of his name. He said he did not know Durrant and never saw him.

One of the murdered girls, Blanche Lamont, he knew by sight, but he had never known her in fact. He had seen her on a street of with a young man, and he had made 2 mark to that effect to a lawyer. The Acome has been his figuring as the important witness. He had thought it over for days, and had concluded that it was fully two or three weeks before the murder when he last saw the girl and their there companion was not Durrrant.

MISTAKEN IDEA REGARDING THE COPELAND MEDICAL SYSTEM

Dr. Copeland Himself Insists That the Term is Not Applicable to the Work of the Famous Medical Institute, as All Regular Patients Pay a Small Fee.

Dr. Copeland objects to the use of the word charity as applied to the Copeland medical system, and not withher the care of the word charity as applied to the Copeland medical system, and not without companies to the care of his system is malades less expert handling to be be such as the care of his system is malades less expert handling to not labor without companies that require more or less protracted treatment and watching are subject to a nominal monthly assessment, is required to pay. CATARRH OF STOMACH.

CATARRH OF STOMACH.

Letter From a Mail Patient Who Was Cored Two Years Ago.

W. H. Smalley, a well-known business etitizen of Shipman, Ill., took a course of treatment with Dr. Copeland through the mails two years ago and was cured. Referring to the radical and permanent character of his cure, as shown by the fact that no symptoms of the trouble have slike returned, Mr. Smalley writes:

"Some years ago, when suffering untold miseries from chronic catarrh of the stomach, I wrote to St. Louis to Drs. Copeland and Thompson, requesting a symptom blank, and soon after began treatment through the mails. I suppose the main point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment point of what I have 6s say is that the treatment is a sound and beaithy condition, free from the weakness, soreness, nauses, bloading, belching and vomiting with which I had been cursed so horribly and for so long a time. I ought to add, however, that, before beginning with Drs. Copeland & Thompson, my whole system seemed to have been under some general catarrhal affection, like a kind of mid blood-poisoning for a number of ears.

"Hout during the hours of sleep more or less of the ville or poisonous catarrhal matter would be swallowed, and it wasn't long till my stomach caught the Infection. My stomach not only became weakened—it seemed ruined. I lost all natural appetite, all natural reliah of food, and what I did eat seemed to turn into sour gases and torture me with dyspeptic bloading, crampling, belching and suffering.

"I sought relief from a great man

"My trouble was a deep-seated chronic extarrh of the nose and throat that had made my life miserable by its filthiness and manifold abominations not less than by its bad effects on the general health. For instance, beside the inflamed and stuffed-up condition of the nostrils, there was a copious and constant discharge from the sose and an equally constant mucus dripping into the throat, with the effect of a continual, tiresome, nervous hawking to keep it clear.
"The unpleasant roaring in the ears caused a partial deafness and I suffered much from catarrhal headache. But the general effects on the system were to cause a wretched feeling of bodily depression and weariness. I was always in a state of fatigue, always tired and worm out. My sleep didn't rest or restore me. I would be as tired moralings as at night. This was my chronic condition. I will say, however, that after two weeks of Dr. Copaland's treatment through the mails I felt very greatly relieved and improved and that in six weeks from that time I was practically over the whole trouble."

Hariford, Conn.
Haley's life on the road kept him from appreciating the love of his wife and the tender charm of home. One day, two years ago, he left his home in Hariford, Conn., with no intention of not returning, but when business kept him away month after month it did not worry him any and still less did he worry himself about writing letters home. When Haley stopped writing his wife concluded that he had deserted her. She started out after him, but not knewing his address or the firm for which he worked, she had a long and wearisome search. She was often only a few miles away, but she never caught up with him until to-day. She learned in Ohlo that he was in St. Louis and came in this morning from Toledo. She went direct to the Four Courts and told her story. Detective Kelly found Haley at 106 South Tenth street. He was arrested, but not told for what he was wanted. After the reconciliation between him and his wife the police withdrew from the case.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Aug. 7.—It is hardly probable that the Hearne-De Young libel probable that the Hearne-De Young libel suit will be tried in the Superior Court in California on the 19th inst., the time the case has been set for trial. The depositions taken in this city and in Chicago are still in the custody of Judge Harrison, the notary before whom they were taken, and they will not be forwarded to California until the expenses have been paid for the same.

A bill for the same has been sent to California, but no money has been received. The cost of taking these depositions is something over $500, of which $220 is to be paid by Dr. Hearne and the balance by De Young. Dr. Hearne has been trying to raise the money, but he has not yet succeeded. He says that his expenses here were much greater than he anticipated and that he has run short of money. He fears if his depositions are not in court when the case is called that they will be excluded, and that he will lose his case.

SAID TO BE A "FAKE."

A Correspondent Manufactured Spring Valley Race War Story.

CHICAGO, Aug. 7.—A special to the Post from Spring Valley, Ill., says: Irom Spring Valley, Ill., says:

It now begins to look like another Pocatello Indian massacre story. After crossexamining nearly every negro and Italian examining nearly every negro and Italian claiming or acknowledging to have heard of the fracas of last Sunday, the actual results simmer down to two negroes slightly niured and one Italian shot. The "race war" exists only in the imagination of the Princeton newspaper correspondent, from whom the Sheriff of Bureau County also obtained his information. And unless some unforseen accident happens to create bad blood or the dearth of absolute news leads to a repetition of groundless stories, there is no reason why Spring Valley or its people should obtrude longer on public notice.

OAKLEY, Kan., Aug. 7.—Wheat conditions in this county have changed materially in the past few days. Bear sentiment and factors were in full control of the situation this morning, anything of a bullish nature exerting but a slight and feeting in fluence and those who bought for reactions finding neither pleasure nor profit therein. Fine weather for harvesting the spring wheat crop, the reports from which in the principal States and others were all "coleur de rose" the general expectation that the marketing of that crop would expectation that the marketing of that crop would expectation that the marketing of that crop would expect the marketing of that crop would be stated in the pressing effect and the fact that Liverpool was dull and lower were the only bearish influences. The movement of winter wheat showed up small, though here only 7,000 bu less than one year ago, the percentage at the four Western markets being 45, but Chisago making by for the worst comparison both in point of receipts and grading. After the opening break there was some buying on sunny weather in France and England and short crop estimate on Europe's crop by Beerbohm, but a report that $1,000,000 in gold had been ordered out for export at New York caused another decline.

There was nothing else to do but sell this morning, if one was counting on crop prospects, for the weather was magnificent and the weather crop bulletins made an extremely favorable report on the crop's general condition. preparations made at the Anheuser-Busch brewery for a reception to visitors as for the union run of the wheelmen to that place, which takes place this evening. All of the wagons will be out of the stable, and racks have been placed therein to store the wheels. A counter ninety feet long has been erected to hold the refreshments, and other arrangements made for the comfort of a possible 1,500.

Messrs. Holm, Butler and Braun will pilot the cyclists on the south side from Twenty-eighth street and Lafayette avenue and Messrs. Lang and Sanders those on the morth side from Twenty-ninth and Locust streets. Starts will be made at 7:30 p. m. No person will be admitted without a wheel, but every man with one is invited. Mr. Ed Busch has announced that he will donate one of the 100 diamonds for the A. C. C. meet, Aug. 24.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 7.—Wheelmen want the L. A. W. national meet for '96. A club composed of the best working members has been organized and steps will be taken immediately to bring the claims of the city before the officers of the different State divisions.

They will again meet the cracks they rode against at Asbury Park, but the St. Louis boys will be in much better condition. Will Coburn has entirely recovered from the injuries he received at Asbury Park.

THE ST. LOUIS REGATTA.

Prospects of Fine Sport at Creve Coeur Lake This Month. The prospect of a great regatta at Creve Cour Lake on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, is filling he local rowing clubs with enthusiasm.

Coeur Lake on Aug. 31 and Sept. 1, is filling the local rowing clubs with enthusiasm. While there is the usual sharp rivalry between certain of the clubs, the oarsmen generally are working, harmoniously to make the affair the biggest event of the kind St. Louis has ever seen.

The regatta will be held under the auspices of the Missouri Amateur Rowing Association. The details are yet in embryo, but enough is known to justify the promise of several great events. One great feature will be a barge race, in which six barges will compets. This river has never seen more than five barges in a race.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 7.—There is a probability that the Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight may be pulled off near Ardmore in the Chickasaw Nation, I. T. It was learned that Judge Kligore was requested by Dan Stewart to look up the legal status of boxing contests in Indian Territory over which he has judicial control. Judge Kligore promptly informed him that there was no law against glove fights in his jurisdiction. Stewart is making arrangements to fall back on Indian Territory if necessary. No Business With Them. The Stickney boys will ship their stable to Louisville in a few days, and Prime Minister will go along with the others, unless he is sold in the meantime. Prime Minister ran a dead heat with Lobengula last Friday and his owners were ordered off the Fair Grounds for using disrespectful language towards Judge Pettus in a discussion ever

"Prime Minister, in my estimation, is one of the best 3-year-olds out this season," said Bill Stickney last night, "but I came to the conclusion early in the season that he was entirely too good a horse for poor men like my brother and myself. Prime Minister showed us work before we commenced racing him at Nashville that convinced me that it would take the best 3-year-old in America to beat him, and I was anxious to sell him. Clem Creveling, the St. Louis turfman and former well-known local politician, is the starting judge at the Terre Haute meeting. He has occupied this position for several seasons past. Mr. Creveling's associate officials there are E. H. Nebeker, ex-Treasurer of the United States, and Col. John Beggs, Vice-President of the Whisky Trust. Messrs. Nebeker and Beggs are in the judges' stand. Mr. Creveling is to be congratulated on having as his associates such prominent gentlemen as Messrs. Nebeker and Beggs. The 2:07 pace at Terre Haute to-morrow, in which Rubenstein is entered, is expected to furnish some sensations.

Abe Cahn, the St. Louis turfman, has sold his Tremont 3-year-old Trenton to Charles Dickey, who will race the speedy but cowardly black horse in the bushes. Trenton's great speed as a 2-year-old last season led his owner to believe that he would prove a serviceable race horse, but it soon became evident that the yellow streak in him killed his usefulness. He is one of the few horses ever owned by the Cahns that has not proved a bread-winner, and Abe was glad to get rid of him.

The Kentucky delegation at the Fair Grounds is in gloom over the Lane-Rodenbaugh shooting at Versailles, which resulted in the death of Col. Work of the Great Southpaw Would Indicate It Is His Release. Among the fans there is a growing opinion that the great southpaw, Breitenstein, is seeking other fields for his prowess through the release channel, and his exhibitions during the past few games would indicate that he was working in that direction. Breit pitched well in the early part of the season and it was usually the one game of a series in which he officiated that the Browns won and managed to keep their average up to 333. But recently his work has been decidedly coarse. He let the Colonels have ten runs in the ninth and win after the game really belonged to the Browns, and Tuesday he allowed the Pirates to pound seventeen hits off him, including a two-bagger, two three-baggers and a home run. Breit's head may have been swelled at the high figures offered to Chris for him and become determined to go where he can make more money. It is true that he receives only a pittance in comparison with other great pitchers and that, no doubt, is what causes the trouble. s seeking other fields for his prowess

Chris Von der Ahe was in a state of high fever this morning over statements that he had asked the Cleveland club to play the games scheduled for St. Louis in Cleveland and that the latter had refused. Speaking on the subject he said: "Why, we paid the Clevelands $900 more when they were here than we got from them, then why should I wish to transfer the games? I have never asked it. Cleveland has a winning team and yet the people do not patronize it. If our club was playing such ball as the Spiders the park would not hold the crowds. Capt. Tebeau would have nothing to do with trans-Tebeau would have nothing to do with transferring the games, anyway, and I do not be-lieve he made the remarks credited to him." Von der Ahe has already laid plans for getting new players next season and is going to average up with last by casting around unusually early. One of his ideas, it is said, is to replace Dowd in right with one Laily, and if this is true, it will not meet with favor with the few loyal fans who have stuck with the Browns all through. Tommy is a very popular player and has done good work in his territory, but Chris does not like him now and that will settle him. The others in view are Stafford of New Orleans for first and Meyers of Nashville for third.

The Browns have lost more games than the tail-enders, Louisville, and won but eight games more. It looks like the beginning of the end, It only remains for the Browns to lose five more games and the Coloneis to win the same number to put St. Louis in the place to which she has been drifting slowly but surely—the bottom of the ladder.
